B. Staff Reports and Deputations

B.1 Deputations, if any

B.1.1 Presentation: Nathan Westendorp, Director of Planning and Development Services Re: Transportation Master Plan Overview

Director of Planning and Development Services Nathan Westendorp reviewed the Transportation Master Plan Overview presentation. The presentation included defining what is a Transportation Master Plan, an overview of the Master Planning Process within Municipal Class Environmental Assessment, issues and topics addressed by Transportation Master Plans, and samples of Transportation Master Plans.

Nathan advised a Master Plan is a strategic document which assesses current conditions while assuming future conditions. Ideally, the Master Plan maps out a coordinated direction with tactical outcomes, for example, Environmental Assessments. Nathan noted a Transportation Master Plan has a scope with a typical minimum of 25 years, but with some Master Plans extending over longer durations. Nathan confirmed that not every municipality conducts Transportation Master Plans, but most do conduct Roads Needs Studies, which have a slightly different purpose. Nathan confirmed Grey Highlands and Municipality of Meaford have undertaken, or are in the process of undertaking, Transportation Master Plans. Nathan confirmed public and stakeholder consultation is critical in the Master Plan process; typically, there is an internal steering Committee, an external working group, and focused, consistent public consultation. Nathan noted booths can also be set up at local community events to raise awareness of the Master Planning process.

Nathan confirmed the Master Plan process can be completed in conjunction with a Municipal Class Environmental Assessment. The group discussed the need to ensure Master Plan alignment on a regional basis with adjacent municipalities and Counties. Shawn emphasized that the Counties, both Simcoe and Grey, would need to endorse a regional focus with Council direction to ensure that level of alignment. Nathan advised the Master Plan process could alternatively be linked with an Official Plan review through the Planning Act. Nathan advised this process is more time-consuming.

Master Planning covers a variety of matters including road classification, level of service, intersections, rail, freight, marine access, recommended networks and future capital projects, right-of-way cross sections, road/land use/design interface, corridor review, and the interface between transportation and land use. It was discussed the Master Plan could review vertical transportation as well, including drone activity, provided the review is aligned with Ministry of Transportation and Transport Canada precedent. Nathan noted the Master Plan could consider emerging technologies in its review, depending on the scope of the Master Plan.

Nathan cautioned that the larger a Master Plan is, the more at-risk it becomes of “project creep” or becoming a catch-all for other initiatives. Nathan suggested the best method of undertaking a Master Plan is to take each phase individually, and complete the reports in draft form until the whole Master Plan is realized. This allows for more flexibility and adaptability.

It was noted that the “build out”, as identified in the Town’s Official Plan, is a critical piece of Master Plan development. Nathan noted the Official Plan needs to be reviewed to ensure the build out information matches the current rate. Nathan confirmed Planning and the Operations Department review water and wastewater servicing needs and noted a full community build out includes extensive growth. Further, active transportation mapping is underway, which will feed into the Master Plan process. Nathan advised that while this material is being developed, there are some tactical projects that can be addressed prior to Master Plan completion. Chief Administrative Officer Shawn Everitt noted the difference between Thornbury and Clarksburg as older parts of the municipality compared to the Craighleith area which is newly developed. Shawn emphasized that a component of the Master Plan process will also be consideration of rural needs. Shawn emphasized there are some easily identifiable areas of focus for the Committee and recommended the Committee pick a section of the municipality, or a specific issue in the municipality, that requires some attention, for example, pedestrian solutions for Elma/Lansdowne/Highway 26/Alfred Streets. Shawn noted that public consultation is key to understanding what the community wants and envisions. Nathan noted that streetmix.net is a good website for Committee members to review as it allows cross section creation and visualization of different standards and street/road design.

Nathan advised he has several sample Transportation Master Plan documents that he will provide to the Committee for their information. Deputy Treasurer/Manager of Accounting and Budgets Sam Dinsmore noted the amount currently budgeted for a Transportation Master Plan is broken into several different funding sources and those sources, particularly the development charges, require the funding to be spent on specific items related to the Master Plan.

Councillor Uram thanked Nathan for the presentation.
